Sick Headache.

Neuralgia and Extreme Nervousness.

EVER since I was eighteen years old until I learned of Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies, I suffered from sick headache and extreme nervousness and dyspepsia. In time heart disease developed. I was treated by several doctors with no relief. Severe palpitation with pain in left breast, shortness of breath, and smothering spells made me most miserable. I procured Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure and took them alternately as directed. Improvement began at once and increased so rapidly that inside of six months I increased thirty six pounds in weight. All pain in the heart is gone, and the nervousness has wholly left me.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SEYMOUR.

LAY C. SMITH, Editor and Publisher

EDW. A. RIMM, Editor

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1897.

Our first-class paper is published every day except Sunday and holidays. It is the only paper in the city that is published every day. It is the only paper in the city that is published every day. It is the only paper in the city that is published every day.

The public debt increased during January $14,078,735. Most people are convinced that there should be a change and that speedily.

If the graduates of the state normal school are so very capable they do not need special privileges granted to them by law. They should be able to more than cope with the strongest students from the colleges if their training is such as President Parsons says it is.

Yesterday afternoon, the building and loan committees of the senate and house held a joint meeting and agreed upon the main features of the building and loan bill to be presented as a substitute for the bills already introduced on the subject. The bill will prohibit a withdrawal fee which has been a source of much complaint. It will abolish the expense fund which has been the greatest evil to be remedied. By it from twelve to twenty per cent of the installments was set aside to meet the expenses of the association instead of meeting them out of the earnings. Another section will regulate the membership fee probably by fixing a maximum fee which can be charged. And a contingent fund of three per cent will probably be created to meet possible losses. These four points have been agreed upon and will be reported at an early day.

The national association of manufacturers and the business men's clubs over the country are urging the creation of a new department of commerce in the cabinet, and it is rumored that McKinley favors such a move. The United States is one of the few great nations that has no department especially to look after the commercial interest of the country. In England the president of the board of trade has a function that always carries with it the rank of a cabinet minister. Austria has its minister of commerce, Belgium has its minister of agriculture, industry and public works, Italy has a minister of commerce, agriculture and industry. France has a minister of commerce and a minister of agriculture. All these officers rank as secretaries of state. In the United States alone among the great trading nations, commerce is unrepresented.

WHAT THE STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION DID ADOPT.

The friends of the general educational bill (Senate bill 59), who have just passed just as reported, January 20, have said over and over again that the measure was endorsed by the State Teachers' Association. They leave the impression that it had been fully prepared before December 31, 1896, and read section by section on that day before the State Teachers' Association and unanimously adopted.

Such, however, is not the case. The bill was not written when the State Teachers' Association adjourned. Therefore it has never been submitted to the association for approval or disapproval.

What was adopted by the State Teachers' Association is very different from Senate bill 59, and is as follows:

TO THE STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION:

The legislative committee appointed by your honorable body begs leave to make the following report:

It is the judgment of this committee that the general assembly should be petitioned to enact the following legislation:

(a) Making the minimum school term of the district schools six months.

(b) That educational qualifications for county superintendents be required, that the term be extended to four years and the office be made a salaried office.

(c) That educational qualifications for city and town superintendents be required, that the term of said superintendent be four years.

(d) That all teachers' licenses hereafter issued be declared state licenses, the rules governing examinations be under the management of the state board of education.

(e) That the state board of education be enlarged by the appointment of two county superintendents; such appointments to be made by the governor.

(f) That a district school library system be enacted.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) D. M. GERTING,
Chairman of Committee.

In drafting the bill the committee omitted two important features of the above recommendations, yet they pretend to have followed the will of the State Teachers' Association.

The bill was not only not endorsed by the teachers' association but the recommendations made by the association were not closely adhered to by the committee which drafted the bill.

The educators of the state who are objecting to the passage of the bill in its present form are nearly all members of the state teachers' association. Many of them have been leaders in the educational work of the state for years. As members of the association and as educators they never have consented to the unjust and unfair provisions of Senate bill 59. Some of the most serious objections to the bill are provisions that it should contain and does not. The bill has been made clear to the educational committees by the non-state school men. A "general" educational bill should not omit such important features.

The contention of the non-state school men is right. A "general" educational bill should take cognizance of all the institutions of the state that are helping to educate and make citizenship better. It should discriminate against none.

SOMETHING ABOUT BEETLES

Their Strange Habits, Instincts and Means of Getting Food.

You are all familiar with the common black beetle known as the tumblebug, and perhaps may have seen it rolling a ball with its hind legs, pushing it backward. The ball contains the egg of the beetle, and the creature is taking it to a place of safety.

A green beetle spotted with white is called the tiger beetle. He is a clever fellow and very cunning in his manner of securing his prey. He will dig a hole a foot in depth and then crawl to the top and form himself into a bridge across the chasm, burying his head in such a manner as to appear like something inanimate, but he will be on the alert for the unwary creature that makes an attempt to cross on his back. In an instant the bridge will give way and the prey will be precipitated into the hole. The beetle will follow and quickly dispatch the game, when he will return, reform the bridge and allure another victim.

Old fashioned furniture is often completely ruined by the larvae of a beetle called the anobium. A peculiar sound like the ticking of a clock is made by these beetles when they call to each other, the noise being made by striking the jaws against their resting place, and often in old houses filled with old furniture the superstitions, when they hear this peculiar sound, imagine the place to be haunted.

Another beetle is found in dark cellars, where it thrives upon dust and trash. It is so difficult to exterminate it that it is looked upon as something uncanny, and the ignorant regard its presence as an ill omen.

The sacred beetle of Egypt is not unlike our own common beetle, and the female lays her eggs in the same way, wrapped in a substance which is to protect it and furnish food. She rolls it up into a ball with her fore legs, sometimes carrying it a long distance upon her head; digs a hole in the earth, deposits her egg laden ball, covers it up, and leaves it to attain its perfect development.

The sexton beetle is a curious creature. He has a thick body and powerful limbs and a most acute sense of smell. No sooner does a small animal die than the sexton beetle appears on the body and begins to eat upon it. In a few hours the dead animal has been covered and the beetles have laid their eggs in the carcass, which is to nourish the larvae.

A remarkable creature is the bombardier beetle, and it is provided with a strange means of defense. It lives in a community under stones, and when disturbed discharges a fluid of a very penetrating odor, much like gas, which explodes as it comes in contact with the air and passes into vapor. Eighteen explosions can be made in succession by one bombardier, and while these are being thrown off like a volley of artillery the beetle effects its escape. The fluid is like nitric acid to the taste. It causes a sharp pain if placed upon the tongue and leaves a yellowish stain.—Our Animal Friends.

TWO CLASSES OF READERS.

Those Who Like Dickens and Those Who Adore Thackeray.

"About 15 years ago readers used to be divided roughly into two classes—those who 'liked Dickens' and those who 'adored Thackeray,'" writes the critic Droch in The Ladies' Home Journal. "Each class used to view the other with more or less contempt. Of the two the Thackeray people felt themselves considerably superior to the Dickens people. There were not so many of them, for one thing, and that in itself gave them a feeling of exclusiveness (something like the attitude assumed by George Meredith's admirers of the present day). But Thackeray's complete works for $3.99 rapidly abolished the aristocracy. Artificial barriers do not long count for much with a great writer.

"You no doubt very soon found out that in certain moods there was nothing more satisfying to you than 'Pendennis,' and at another time the best novel that you ever read was 'David Copperfield.' I have no doubt that in the long run deep in your heart you will cherish a finer affection for the one than the other. That is a matter of temperament and your surroundings. The one you like best fits best into your life as you are making it. You will discover that a change of scene or occupation often brings you into sympathy with a writer whom you never before appreciated. A great sorrow will sometimes reveal George Eliot to you; a little journey in England will show you new beauties in Trollope; a wave of war feeling in Europe and people begin rereading Tolstoi's 'War and Peace.'"

Mysteries of Helium.

As further experiments are carried with the new gas called helium—which was recognized in the sun before it had been found on the earth—the more remarkable it appears. Many chemists believe it consists of two gases, yet they have not been able satisfactorily to divide it. Professor Ramsay, one of its discoverers, has failed in every attempt to make it enter into a chemical combination. Lord Rayleigh has found that it possesses by far the lowest refractivity ever observed in any gas, and surprise is expressed at the astonishing distances traversed by electric sparks in darting through helium.

Reparation. John Butts, Sr.—I want to leave my property to my two sons—one tenth to my youngest son, John Butts, and nine tenths to my eldest son, Royal Chesterfield Chauncey de Peyster Butts.

Family Lawyer—H'm! Do you think that's quite fair?

John Butts, Sr.—Yes. I want to make some kind of reparation to Royal for allowing his mother to give him such a crack jaw name.—London Tit-Bite.

NOT ENOUGH VOTES

Republican Apportionment Bill Strikes a Snag in the House.

SPECIAL ORDER FOR MONDAY.

Superior Court Bill For Grant and Howard Passed Under a Suspension of the Rules.—Mr. Root's New Township Trustees Bill—Senate Advances Two Bills to Engrossment.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—The senate Friday adjourned over until Monday, but the house decided to remain in session today. Both houses were entertained for an hour in the morning by a speech from Susan B. Anthony. In the house the Republicans struck a snag with their apportionment bill and failed to push it through to engrossment, only 38 members voting to do this under the previous question. It was made a special order for Monday afternoon. The house spent most of its day upon second reading, but it passed three bills. One of these was the peculiar measure enacting into a law a mathematical demonstration by Dr. Goodwin of Posey county, upon computing the area of a circle. Another bill passed under suspension of the rules was for the establishment of a superior court for Grant and Howard counties. The third one was a bill releasing towns of 1,500 or under from the requirement to establish school boards. The bill abolishing the office of county assessor in the smaller counties was killed. The bill for knocking out the business of insurance against damage suits, came up on second reading and a motion to recommit it to the judiciary committee was lost and the bill was engrossed, as was also the one giving the attorney general an additional traveling deputy and stenographer. Mr. Linck offered a resolution for the appointment of two extra clerks to prevent appropriations for extra work at the end of the session and it was adopted. Mr. Root introduced a new bill Friday for the purpose of curbing the expenditures of township trustees, so I amed as to meet the objections that had been raised to his former measure. He moved a suspension of the rules to pass the bill, but objection was raised and he withdrew his motion.

In the senate the caucus measure amending the election bill was engrossed after a brief fight and a favorable committee report on the apportionment bill was adopted without trouble. Nearly the whole day was spent in a fight over the bill putting the proof of contributory negligence upon the defendants in action for damages, but the measure finally escaped to engrossment without amendment. An effort was made to take up bills on third reading but the first roll call disclosed a quorum and the senate adjourned early.

Apportionment Bill in the House.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—The Republicans failed to advance their apportionment bill in the house Friday under the previous question. This does not mean the defeat of the measure, but it is said an effort will be made to amend it by leaving out the joint district of Grant, Howard, Huntington and Wabash and giving each Stenben and Lagrange a separate representative. When those supporting the previous question were asked to rise Messrs. Babcock, Butler, Linck, Hall, Canada, Reynolds and one or two other Republicans kept their seats, only 38 members having voted for the motion. The Democrats have a substitute they desire to offer for the bill, and on motion of Mr. Eichhorn further consideration of the bill was made a special order for next Monday.

Mr. Geisel's County Assessor Bill.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—When Mr. Geisel's bill to abolish the office of county assessor in counties of less than 25,000 came up in the house Friday it developed that the state tax commissioners were very much opposed to the measure in any form, believing it would break down a part of the tax machinery of the state. Speeches were made by a number of members, showing the amount of property put on the duplicates by county assessors, and the motion to kill was adopted almost unanimously.

Adopted the Governor's Views.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—After the veto by the governor of the Grant superior and Howard-Tipton court bills the leading attorneys of those counties got together and agreed to the suggestion of the governor for a superior court for Grant and Howard counties, and a bill embodying the governor's views was introduced in the house Friday and passed, under a suspension of the rules.

GENERAL STATE NEWS.

Attempted Assassination of Daniel Zenger at Hudson, Ind.

HUDSON, Ind., Feb. 6.—An attempt was made here to murder Daniel Zenger, a wealthy resident. He was followed by masked men, who knocked him down, and after cutting wounds in his head with some sharp instrument, fired several shots at him before his calls for help brought assistance. Yesterday it was found that the doors of all the stores in town had been forced, and evidence supports the theory that the purpose of the raiders was to loot every business house in the place.

Family's Misfortunes.

AMITY, Ind., Feb. 6.—Dr. J. H. Adams' family, recently badly injured while escaping from a burning home, is in a critical condition. The doctor is barely alive, being unconscious the greater part of the time, and his wife is insane from worrying over the condition of her son and the doctor.

A monument will be erected to the memory of the late George B. Roberts, of the Pennsylvania road, to be located at Kittanning Point, a favorite spot of the President.

The Pennsylvania has directed conductors to refuse any tickets more than six years old. Often tickets ten and fifteen years old are presented and accepted for passage on roads.

Harry Smith, passenger conductor on the Louisville division of the Pennsylvania lines, has so far recovered his health that he has resumed his run after some weeks of absence.

An impression prevails in higher railroad circles that in the near future the numerous lines in the Pennsylvania system east of Pittsburgh will be under one president, and those west of Pittsburgh under another president. In such case James McGree would undoubtedly be elected president of the western lines.

Some surprise has been expressed that the locomotives on the Pennsylvania lines were not draped in memory of the dead president. It has been an established rule for many years not to drape locomotives, private cars and cabooses on such occasions, and seldom are any of the offices draped in respect to a deceased official. Never before have the offices been so generally draped as since the death of the late President Roberts.

From Comrade Charlton

W. R. England has received a letter from Prof. T. J. Charlton extending thanks to the comrades of Ellsworth Post 20 G. A. R. for their sympathy and all they did in behalf of the late Dr. Charlton. In the letter he says:

PLAINFIELD, IND., Jan. 24, 1897.
TO W. R. ENGLAND,
Ellsworth Post No. 20 G. A. R.

"Never in my life did I feel what there was in comradeship as much as on that solemn march to the cemetery. The sight of the old comrades marching through the slush and snow for two or three miles and as far back, carrying 'old glory' aloft, made me feel that no other tie on earth could make men endure so much for a man. I have seen various tests of the strength of the tie which binds together the men who bore the brunt of the war but I never saw as strong an evidence of that as at my brother's funeral."

Cost of Stopping Trains.

People who are always crying about passenger trains stopping or not stopping at their demand are not aware that it costs sometimes $2 when a train is stopped. This cost is made up in fuel burned, the force necessary to start a train, the result of action on the brakes, liability of accidents the engines and many other things. Two dollars is the maximum. The Pennsylvania puts the cost from twelve to fifteen cents every time one of the company's trains is stopped.

W. R. C.

National President Agnes Hitt, in her recent presentation of the woman's relief corps to the national council of women, at Boston, Mass., stated that since its organization the W. R. C. had expended the sum of $1,249,214.61 in relief, assisting 40,513 soldiers and members of their families. In addition the corps had expended $79,707.18 for memorial day; $32,164.31 for the national relief corps home at Madison, O.; $3,785.67 to purchase flags to be placed on the graves of Union soldiers in southern cemeteries, many being marked "unknown."

Special mention was made of the passage by congress, through the influence of the relief corps, of a bill by which $80,000 is annually paid to heroic women who volunteered to nurse sick and wounded veterans in hospitals and on the field, as well as the work being done in the state soldiers' and sailors' orphans' homes, including the work of the department corps in advancing the cause of patriotic teaching.

Mrs. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericks-town, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhoea for over thirty years. He has become fully satisfied that if it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by C. W. Milhous, Druggist.

Fighting the Ice.
The harbor boats are still keeping the channel open and the ugly looking ice is still in motion. This afternoon the Hite succeeded in making several trips but the ice is heavy and she labored hard to get through it. On this side the dock is no longer surrounded by a gorge. In the next twenty-four hours relief is expected so that the river will be practically open.—Jeffersonville News.

SMALL BLAZE.

The Woolen Mill Suffers Slightly From Fire and Water.

About half past seven o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the wool dryer in the dry house of the woolen factory. How it originated is a mystery as there is no fire about the machine and no fast running parts. The heat opened six of the automatic sprinklers and held the fire in check and in a short time it was extinguished entirely. The principal damage is from water which flooded the second floor and ran through to the belts and stock below. The damage will amount to about $250.

"Shore Acres."

Nathaniel and Martin Berry were brothers, living together on a farm in Maine. Shore, as the farm is called, was on the seacoast, and the Berrys spent part of their time tending the lighthouse on a neighboring headland. Nathaniel was the elder, and from the time their father was drowned at sea, he had been wont to watch over Martin, give in to him and make things as easy as he could for him. In short Nathaniel was one of those men whose very strength of character seemed like weakness. He sacrificed himself for everyone. A simple, courageous soul, a man with a heart as big as all New England, was Nathaniel Berry. This is the man James A. Herne has chosen for the hero of his play, "Shore Acres," and in the modern drama no more beautiful, if homely, character is to be found. There is beautiful love story unfolded in this play.

Sick Headache.

Neuralgia and Extreme Nervousness.

EVER since I was eighteen years old until I learned of Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies, I suffered from sick headache and extreme nervousness and dyspepsia. In time time disease developed. I was treated by several doctors with no relief. Severe palpitation with pain in left breast, shortness of breath, and smothering spells made me most miserable. I procured Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure and took them alternately as directed. Improvement began at once and increased so rapidly that inside of six months I increased thirty six pounds in weight. All pain in the heart is gone, and the nervousness has wholly left me."

Daily Republican.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SEYMOUR.

JAY C. SMITH, Editors and Publishers
EDW. A. RYAN, Jr.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1897.

THE public debt increased during January $14,078,735. Most people are convinced that there should be a change and that speedily.

IF THE graduates of the state normal school are so very capable they do not need special privileges granted to them by law. They should be able to more than cope with the strongest students from the colleges if their training is such as President Parsons says it is.

YESTERDAY afternoon, the building and loan committees of the senate and house held a joint meeting and agreed upon the main features of the building and loan bill to be presented as a substitute for the bills already introduced on the subject. The bill will prohibit a withdrawal fee which has been a source of much complaint. It will abolish the expense fund which has been the greatest evil to be remedied. By it from twelve to twenty per cent of the installments was set aside to meet the expenses of the association instead of meeting them out of the earnings. Another section will regulate the membership fee which can be charged. And a contingent fund of three per cent will probably be created to meet possible losses. These four points have been agreed upon and will be reported at an early day.

THE national association of manufacturers and the business men's clubs over the country are urging the creation of a new department of commerce in the cabinet, and it is rumored that McKinley favors such a move. The United States is one of the few great nations that has no department especially to look after the commercial interest of the country. In England the president of the board of trade has a function that always carries with it the rank of a cabinet minister. Austria has its minister of commerce. Belgium has its minister of agriculture, industry and public works. Italy has a minister of commerce, agriculture and industry. France has a minister of commerce and a minister of agriculture. All these officers rank as secretaries of state. In the United States alone among the great trading nations, commerce is unrepresented.

WHAT THE STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION DID ADOPT.

The friends of the general educational bill (Senate bill 59), who want it passed just as reported, January 20, have said over and over again that the measure was indorsed by the State Teachers' Association. They leave the impression that it had been fully prepared before December 31, 1896, and read section by section on that day before the State Teachers' Association and unanimously adopted.

Such, however, is not the case. The bill was not written when the State Teachers' Association adjourned. Therefore it has never been submitted to the association for approval or disapproval.

What was adopted by the State Teachers' Association is very different from Senate bill 59, and is as follows:

TO THE STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION:

The legislative committee appointed by your honorable body begs leave to make the following report:

It is the judgment of this committee that the general assembly should be petitioned to enact the following legislation:

- (a) Making the minimum school term of the district schools six months.
- (b) That educational qualifications for county superintendents be required, that the term be extended to four years and the office be made a salaried office.
- (c) That educational qualifications for city and town superintendent be required, that the term of said superintendent be four years.
- (d) That all teachers' licenses hereafter issued be declared state licenses, the rules governing examinations be under the management of the state board of education.
- (e) That the state board of education be enlarged by the appointment of two county superintendents; such appointments to be made by the governor.
- (f) That a district school library system be enacted.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) D. M. GETTING,
Chairman of Committee.

In drafting the bill the committee omitted two important features of the above recommendations, yet they pretend to have followed the will of the State Teachers' Association.

The bill was not only not indorsed by the teachers' association but the recommendations made by the association were not closely adhered to by the committee which drafted the bill.

The educators of the state who are objecting to the passage of the bill in its present form are nearly all members of the state teachers' association. Many of them have been leaders in the educational work of the state for years. As members of the association and as educators they never have consented to the unjust and unfair provisions of Senate bill 59. Some of the most serious objections to the bill are provisions that it should contain and does not. The bill has been made clear to the educational committees by the non-state school men. A "general" educational bill should not omit such important features.

The contention of the non-state school men is right. A "general" educational bill should take cognizance of all the institutions of the state that are helping to educate and make citizenship better. It should discriminate against none.

SOMETHING ABOUT BEETLES

Their Strange Habits, Instincts and Means of Getting Food.

You are all familiar with the common black beetle known as the tumblebug, and perhaps may have seen it rolling a ball with its hind legs, pushing it backward. The ball contains the egg of the beetle, and the creature is taking it to a place of safety.

A green beetle spotted with white is called the tiger beetle. He is a clever fellow and very cunning in his manner of securing his prey. He will dig a hole a foot in depth and then crawl to the top and form himself into a bridge across the chasm, burying his head in such a manner as to appear like something inanimate, but he will be on the alert for the unwary creature that makes an attempt to cross on his back. In an instant the bridge will fall into the hole. The beetle will follow and quickly dispatch the game, when he will return, reform the bridge and allure another victim.

Old fashioned furniture is often completely ruined by the larvae of a beetle called the anobium. A peculiar sound like the ticking of a clock is made by these beetles when they call to each other, the noise being made by striking the jaws against their resting place, and often in old houses filled with old furniture the superstitious, when they hear this peculiar sound, imagine the place to be haunted.

Another beetle is found in dark cellars, where it thrives upon dust and trash. It is so difficult to exterminate it that it is looked upon as something uncanny, and the ignorant regard its presence as an ill omen.

The sacred beetle of Egypt is not unlike our own common beetle, and the female lays her egg in the same way, wrapped in a substance which is to protect it and furnish food. She rolls it up into a ball with her fore legs, sometimes carrying it a long distance upon her head; digs a hole in the earth, deposits her egg laden ball, covers it up, and leaves it to attain its perfect development.

The sexton beetle is a curious creature. He has a thick body and powerful limbs and a most acute sense of smell. No sooner does a small animal die than the sextons gather about the body and begin to put earth upon it. In a few hours the dead animal has been covered and the beetles have laid their eggs in the carcass, which is to nourish the larva.

A remarkable creature is the bombardier beetle, and it is provided with a strange means of defense. It lives in a community under stones, and when disturbed discharges a fluid of a very penetrating odor, much like gas, which explodes as it comes in contact with the air and passes into vapor. Eighteen explosions can be made in succession by one bombardier, and while these are being thrown off like a volley of artillery the beetle effects its escape. The fluid is like nitric acid to the taste. It causes a sharp pain if placed upon the tongue and leaves a yellowish stain.—Our Animal Friends.

TWO CLASSES OF READERS.

Those Who Like Dickens and Those Who Adore Thackeray.

"About 15 years ago readers used to be divided roughly into two classes—those who 'liked Dickens' and those who 'adored Thackeray.'" writes the critic Droch in The Ladies Home Journal. "Each class used to view the other with more or less contempt. Of the two the Thackeray people felt themselves considerably superior to the Dickens people. There were not so many of them, for one thing, and that in itself gave them a feeling of exclusiveness (something like the attitude assumed by George Meredith's admirers of the present day). But Thackeray's complete works for $3.99 rapidly abolished the aristocracy. Artificial barriers do not long count for much with a great writer.

"You no doubt very soon found out that in certain moods there was nothing more satisfying to you than 'Pendennis,' and at another time the best novel that you ever read was 'David Copperfield.' I have no doubt that in the long run deep in your heart you will cherish a finer affection for the one than the other. That is a matter of temperament and your surroundings. The one you like best fits into your life as you are making it. You will discover that a change of scene or occupation often brings you into sympathy with a writer whom you never before appreciated. A great sorrow will sometimes reveal George Eliot to you; a little journey in England will show you new beauties in Trollope; a wave of war feeling in Europe and people begin rereading Tolstoi's 'War and Peace.'"

Mysteries of Helium.

As further experiments are carried with the new gas called helium—which was recognized in the sun before it had been found on the earth—the more remarkable it appears. Many chemists believe it consists of two gases, yet they have not been able satisfactorily to divide it. Professor Ramsay, one of its discoverers, has failed in every attempt to make it enter into a chemical combination. Lord Rayleigh has found that it possesses by far the lowest refractivity ever observed in any gas, and surprise is expressed at the astonishing distances traversed by electric sparks in darting through helium.

Reparation.

John Butts, Sr.—I want to leave my property to my two sons—one tenth to my youngest son, John Butts, and nine tenths to my eldest son, Royal Chesterfield Chauncey de Peyster Butts.

Family Lawyer—H'm! Do you think that's quite fair?

John Butts, Sr.—Yes. I want to make some kind of reparation to Royal for allowing his mother to give him such a crack jaw name.—London Tit-Bite.

The revival being conducted at Acme by the U. B. congregation is growing in interest.

NOT ENOUGH VOTES

Republican Apportionment Bill Strikes a Snag In the House.

SPECIAL ORDER FOR MONDAY.

Superior Court Bill For Grant and Howard Passed Under a Suspension of the Rules.—Mr. Root's New Township Trustee Bill—Senate Advances Two Bills to Engratment.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—The senate Friday adjourned over until Monday, but the house decided to remain in session today. Both houses were entertained for an hour in the morning by a speech from Susan B. Anthony. In the house the Republicans struck a snag with their apportionment bill and failed to push it through to engratment, only 38 members voting to do this under the previous question. It was made a special order for Monday afternoon. The house spent most of its day upon second reading, but it passed three bills. One of these was the peculiar measure enacting into a law a mathematical demonstration by Dr. Goodwin of Posey county, upon computing the area of a circle. Another bill passed under suspension of the rules was for the establishment of a superior court for Grant and Howard counties. The third one was a bill releasing towns of 1,500 or under from the requirement to establish school boards. The bill abolishing the office of county assessor in the smaller counties was killed. The bill for knocking out the business of insurance against damage suits, came up on second reading and a motion to recommit it to the judiciary committee was lost and the bill was engrossed, as was also the one giving the attorney general an additional traveling deputy and stenographer. Mr. Linck offered a resolution for the appointment of two extra clerks to prevent appropriations for extra work at the end of the session and it was adopted. Mr. Root introduced a new bill Friday for the purpose of curbing the expenditures of township trustees, so named as to meet the objections that had been raised to his former measure. He moved a suspension of the rules to pass the bill, but objection was raised and he withdrew his motion.

In the senate the caucus measure amending the election bill was engrossed after a brief fight and a favorable committee report on the apportionment bill was adopted without trouble. Nearly the whole day was spent in a fight over the bill putting the proof of contributory negligence upon the defendants in action for damages, but the measure finally escaped to engratment without amendment. An effort was made to take up bills on third reading but the first roll call disclosed no quorum and the senate adjourned early.

Apportionment Bill In the House.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—The Republicans failed to advance their apportionment bill in the house Friday under the previous question. This does not mean the defeat of the measure, but it is said an effort will be made to amend it by leaving out the joint district of Grant, Howard, Huntington and Wabash and giving each Steuben and Lagrange a separate representative. When those supporting the previous question were asked to rise Messrs. Babcock, Butler, Linck, Hall, Canada, Reynolds and one or two other Republicans kept their seats, only 38 members having voted for the motion. The Democrats have a substitute they desire to offer for the bill, and on motion of Mr. Eichhorn further consideration of the bill was made a special order for next Monday.

Mr. Geisel's County Assessor Bill.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—When Mr. Geisel's bill to abolish the office of county assessor in counties of less than 25,000 came up in the house Friday it developed that the state tax commissioners were very much opposed to the measure in many forms, believing it would break down a part of the tax machinery of the state. Speeches were made by a number of members, showing the amount of property put on the duplicates by county assessors, and the motion to kill was adopted almost unanimously.

Adopted the Governor's Views.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—After the veto by the governor of the Grant superior and Howard-Tipton court bills the leading attorneys of those counties got together and agreed to the suggestion of the governor for a superior court for Grant and Howard counties, and a bill embodying the governor's views was introduced in the house Friday and passed, under a suspension of the rules.

GENERAL STATE NEWS.

Attempted Assassination of Daniel Zanker at Hudson, Ind.

HUDSON, Ind., Feb. 6.—An attempt was made here to murder Daniel Zanker, a wealthy resident. He was followed by masked men, who knocked him down, and after cutting wounds in his head with some sharp instrument, fired several shots at him before his calls for help brought assistance. Yesterday it was found that the doors of all the stores in town had been forced, and evidence supports the theory that the purpose of the raiders was to loot every business house in the place.

Family's Misfortunes.

AMITY, Ind., Feb. 6.—Dr. J. H. Adams' family, recently badly injured while escaping from a burning home, is in a critical condition. The doctor is barely alive, being unconscious the greater part of the time, and his wife is insane from worrying over the condition of her son and the doctor.

Farmer Ensnared by Loss.

PERU, Ind., Feb. 6.—C. C. Enswiler's barn, four small buildings and 3,000 bushels of corn, one horse and farming implements burned yesterday. Loss, $2,500; insurance, $500.

A few months ago, Mr. Byron Every, of Woodstock, Mich., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. His right leg was swollen the full length, causing him great suffering. In 1892 the expenses of Indiana counties for the holding of the election were $260,912, to which $19,065 should be added as the cost of printing state ballots and other expenses, making the total cost of the election $279,977. Last year the cost of the elections to the counties was $209,624, and the cost of printing and handling the state ballots was $15,108—a total of $224,732—a saving of $55,246 last year compared with 1892.

A monument will be erected to the memory of the late George B. Roberts, of the Pennsylvania road, to be located at Kittanning Point, a favorite spot of the President.

The Pennsylvania has directed conductors to refuse any tickets more than six years old. Often tickets ten and fifteen years old are presented and accepted for passage on roads.

Harry Smith, passenger conductor on the Louisville division of the Pennsylvania lines, has so far recovered his health that he has resumed his run after some weeks of absence.

An impression prevails in higher railroad circles that in the near future the numerous lines in the Pennsylvania system east of Pittsburgh will be under one president, and those west of Pittsburgh under one president. In such case James McCrea would undoubtedly be elected president of the western lines.

Some surprise has been expressed that the locomotives on the Pennsylvania lines were not draped in memory of the dead president. It has been an established rule for many years not to drape locomotives, private cars and cabooses on such occasions, and seldom are any of the offices draped in respect to a deceased official. Never before have the offices been so generously draped as since the death of the late President Roberts.

F. O. Comrade Charlton

W. R. England has received a letter from Prof. T. J. Charlton extending thanks to the comrades of Ellsworth Post 20 G. A. R. for their sympathy and all they did in behalf of the late Dr. Charlton. In the letter he says:

PLAINFIELD, IND., Jan. 24, 1897.

TO W. R. ENGLAND, Ellsworth Post No. 20 G. A. R.

"Never in my life did I feel what there was in comradeship as much as on that solemn march to the cemetery. The sight of the old comrades marching through the slush and snow for two or three miles and as far back, carrying 'old glory' aloft, made me feel that no other tie on earth could make men endure so much for a man. I have seen various tests of the strength of the tie which binds together the men who bore the brunt of the war but I never saw as strong an evidence of that as at my brother's funeral."

Cost of Stopping Trains.

People who are always crying about passenger trains stopping or not stopping at their demand are not aware that it costs sometimes $2 when a train is stopped. This cost is made up in fuel burned, the force necessary to start a train, the result of action on the brakes, liability of accidents, the engines and many other things. Two dollars is the maximum. The Pennsylvania puts the cost from twelve to fifteen cents every time one of the company's trains is stopped.

W. R. C.

National President Agnes Hitt, in her recent presentation of the woman's relief corps to the national council of women, at Boston, Mass., stated that since its organization the W. R. C. had expended the sum of $1,249,214.61 in relief, assisting 40,513 soldiers and members of their families. In addition the corps had expended $79,707.18 for memorial day; $32,164.31 for the national relief corps home at Madison, O.; $3,785.67 to purchase flags to be placed on the graves of Union soldiers in southern cemeteries, many being marked "unknown."

Special mention was made of the passage by congress, through the influence of the relief corps, of a bill by which $50,000 is annually paid to heroic women who volunteered to nurse sick and wounded veterans in hospitals and on the field, as well as the work being done in the state soldiers' and sailors' orphan homes, including the work of the department corps in advancing the cause of patriotic teaching.

Mr. Ward L. Smith, of Fredericktown, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhoea for over thirty years. He has become fully satisfied that if it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physicians in Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a newspaper and chanced to read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by C. W. Milhous, Druggist.

Fighting the Ice.

The harbor boats are still keeping the channel open and the ugly looking ice is still in motion. This afternoon the Hitt succeeded in making several trips but the ice is heavy and she labored hard to get through it. On this side the dock is no longer surrounded by a gorge. In the next twenty-four hours relief is expected so that the river will be practically open.—Jeffersonville News.

SMALL BLAZE.

The Woolen Mill Suffers Slightly From Fire and Water.

About half past seven o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the wool dryer in the dry house of the woolen factory. How it originated is a mystery as there is no fire about the machine and no fast running parts. The heat opened six of the automatic sprinklers and held the fire in check and in a short time it was extinguished entirely. The principal damage is from water which flooded the second floor and ran through to the belts and stock below. The damage will amount to about $250.

"Shore Acres."

Nathaniel and Martin Berry were brothers, living together on a farm in Maine. Shore, as the farm is called, was on the seacoast, and the Berrys spent part of their time tending the lighthouse on a neighboring headland. Nathaniel was the elder, and from the time their father was drowned at sea, he had been wont to watch over Martin, give in to him and make things as easy as he could for him. In short Nathaniel was one of those men whose very strength of character seemed like weakness. He sacrificed himself for everyone. A simple, courageous soul, a man with a heart as big as all New England, was Nathaniel Berry. This is the man James A. Herne has chosen for the hero of his play, "Shore Acres," and in the modern drama no more beautiful, if homely, character is to be found. There is beautiful love story unfolded in this play.
